When we introduced the Royal Cruiser 34 Baltic in the early 60s, little did we know how decisively its design concept would influence future generations of Storebro boats.

The Royal Cruiser 34 Baltic, which was the first Storebro boat with a roomy aft cabin, was an immediate and huge success. The great majority are, of course, still afloat and command a good price on the second-hand market whenever they come up for sale.

The reasons for its popularity are not difficult to find: its beautiful classic lines were well nigh irresistible. But what really caught people's attention was the way in which this boat enabled owners to enjoy all the fun of boating without any of the traditional drawbacks of cramped accommodation and make-do facilities. The Royal Cruiser 34 Baltic brought comfort, convenience and luxury to life afloat. This boat-building concept not only had an enormous impact at the time, but also marked the beginning of more than 30 years of continuous and committed development.

The Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic is the latest model in this boat-building evolution. It embodies all the benefits of the comfort-at-sea concept, with the added refinements of solid experience and modern technology married to traditional craftsmanship. In a word, it is a beautiful, modern boat, built to bring a new dimension to your enjoyment of life afloat.

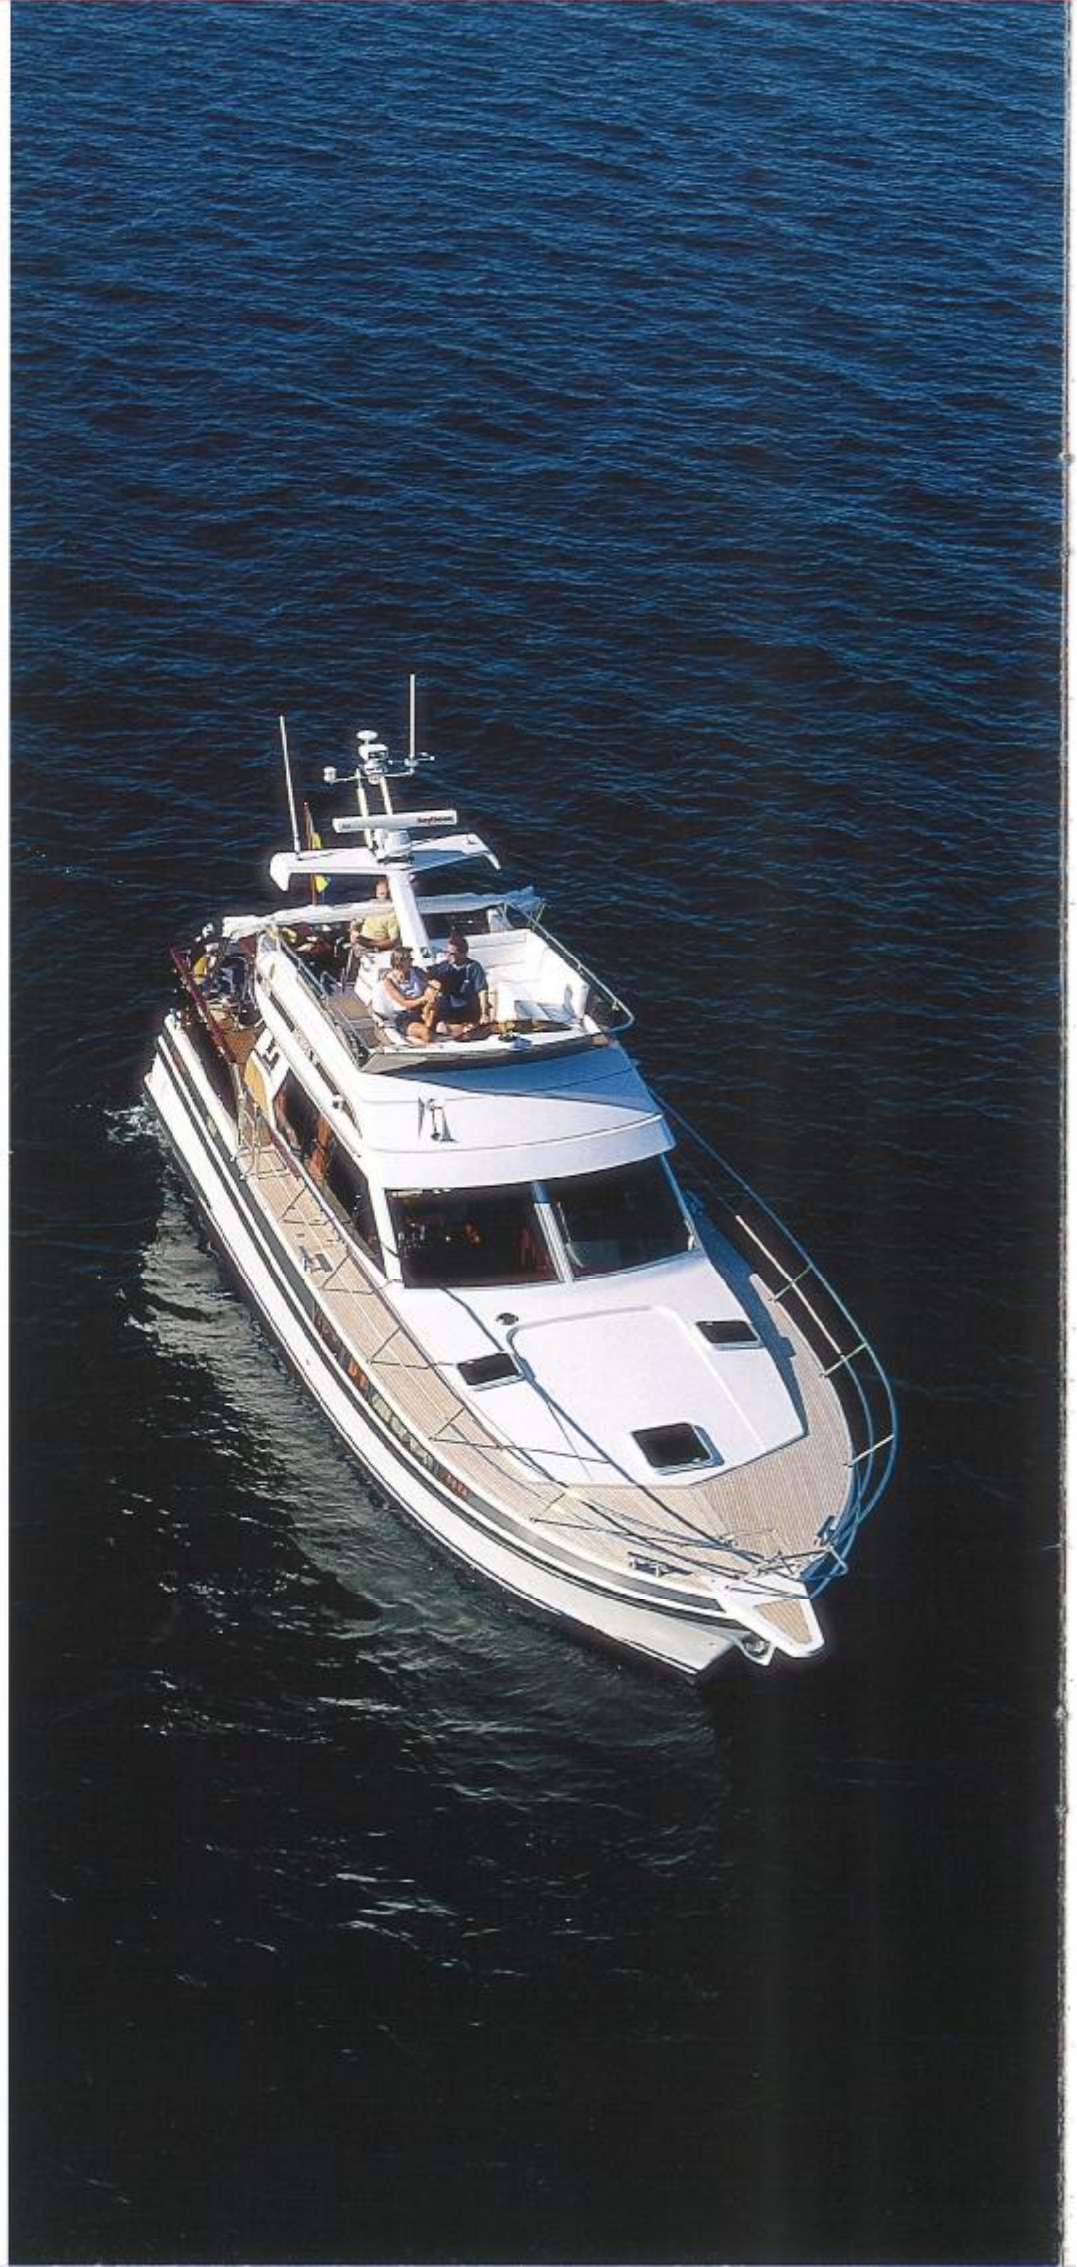

Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic.

True to its origins.

The basic idea is still the same – all Storebro boats are designed and equipped to bring the maximum pleasure and safety to life afloat. So you can enjoy life on board the Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic even for extended periods.

The Storebro Royal Cruiser Storebro 430 Baltic incorporates a new, well-balanced, V-shaped hull with somewhat gentler curves above the waterline. This modern design is clearly influenced by classical lines and reflects the Storebro tradition. It is also a stable and reliable design that can take full advantage of the Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic's high speed, to offer you an unrivalled sea-going experience. And you can cruise just as safely on the open seas as in more protected waters closer to the coast.

The Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic expresses the essence of the experience and attention to detail of generations of Swedish boat-builders – a heritage which has been carefully preserved. A heritage in which the interplay between traditional craftsmanship and modern technology forms the cornerstone of our work.

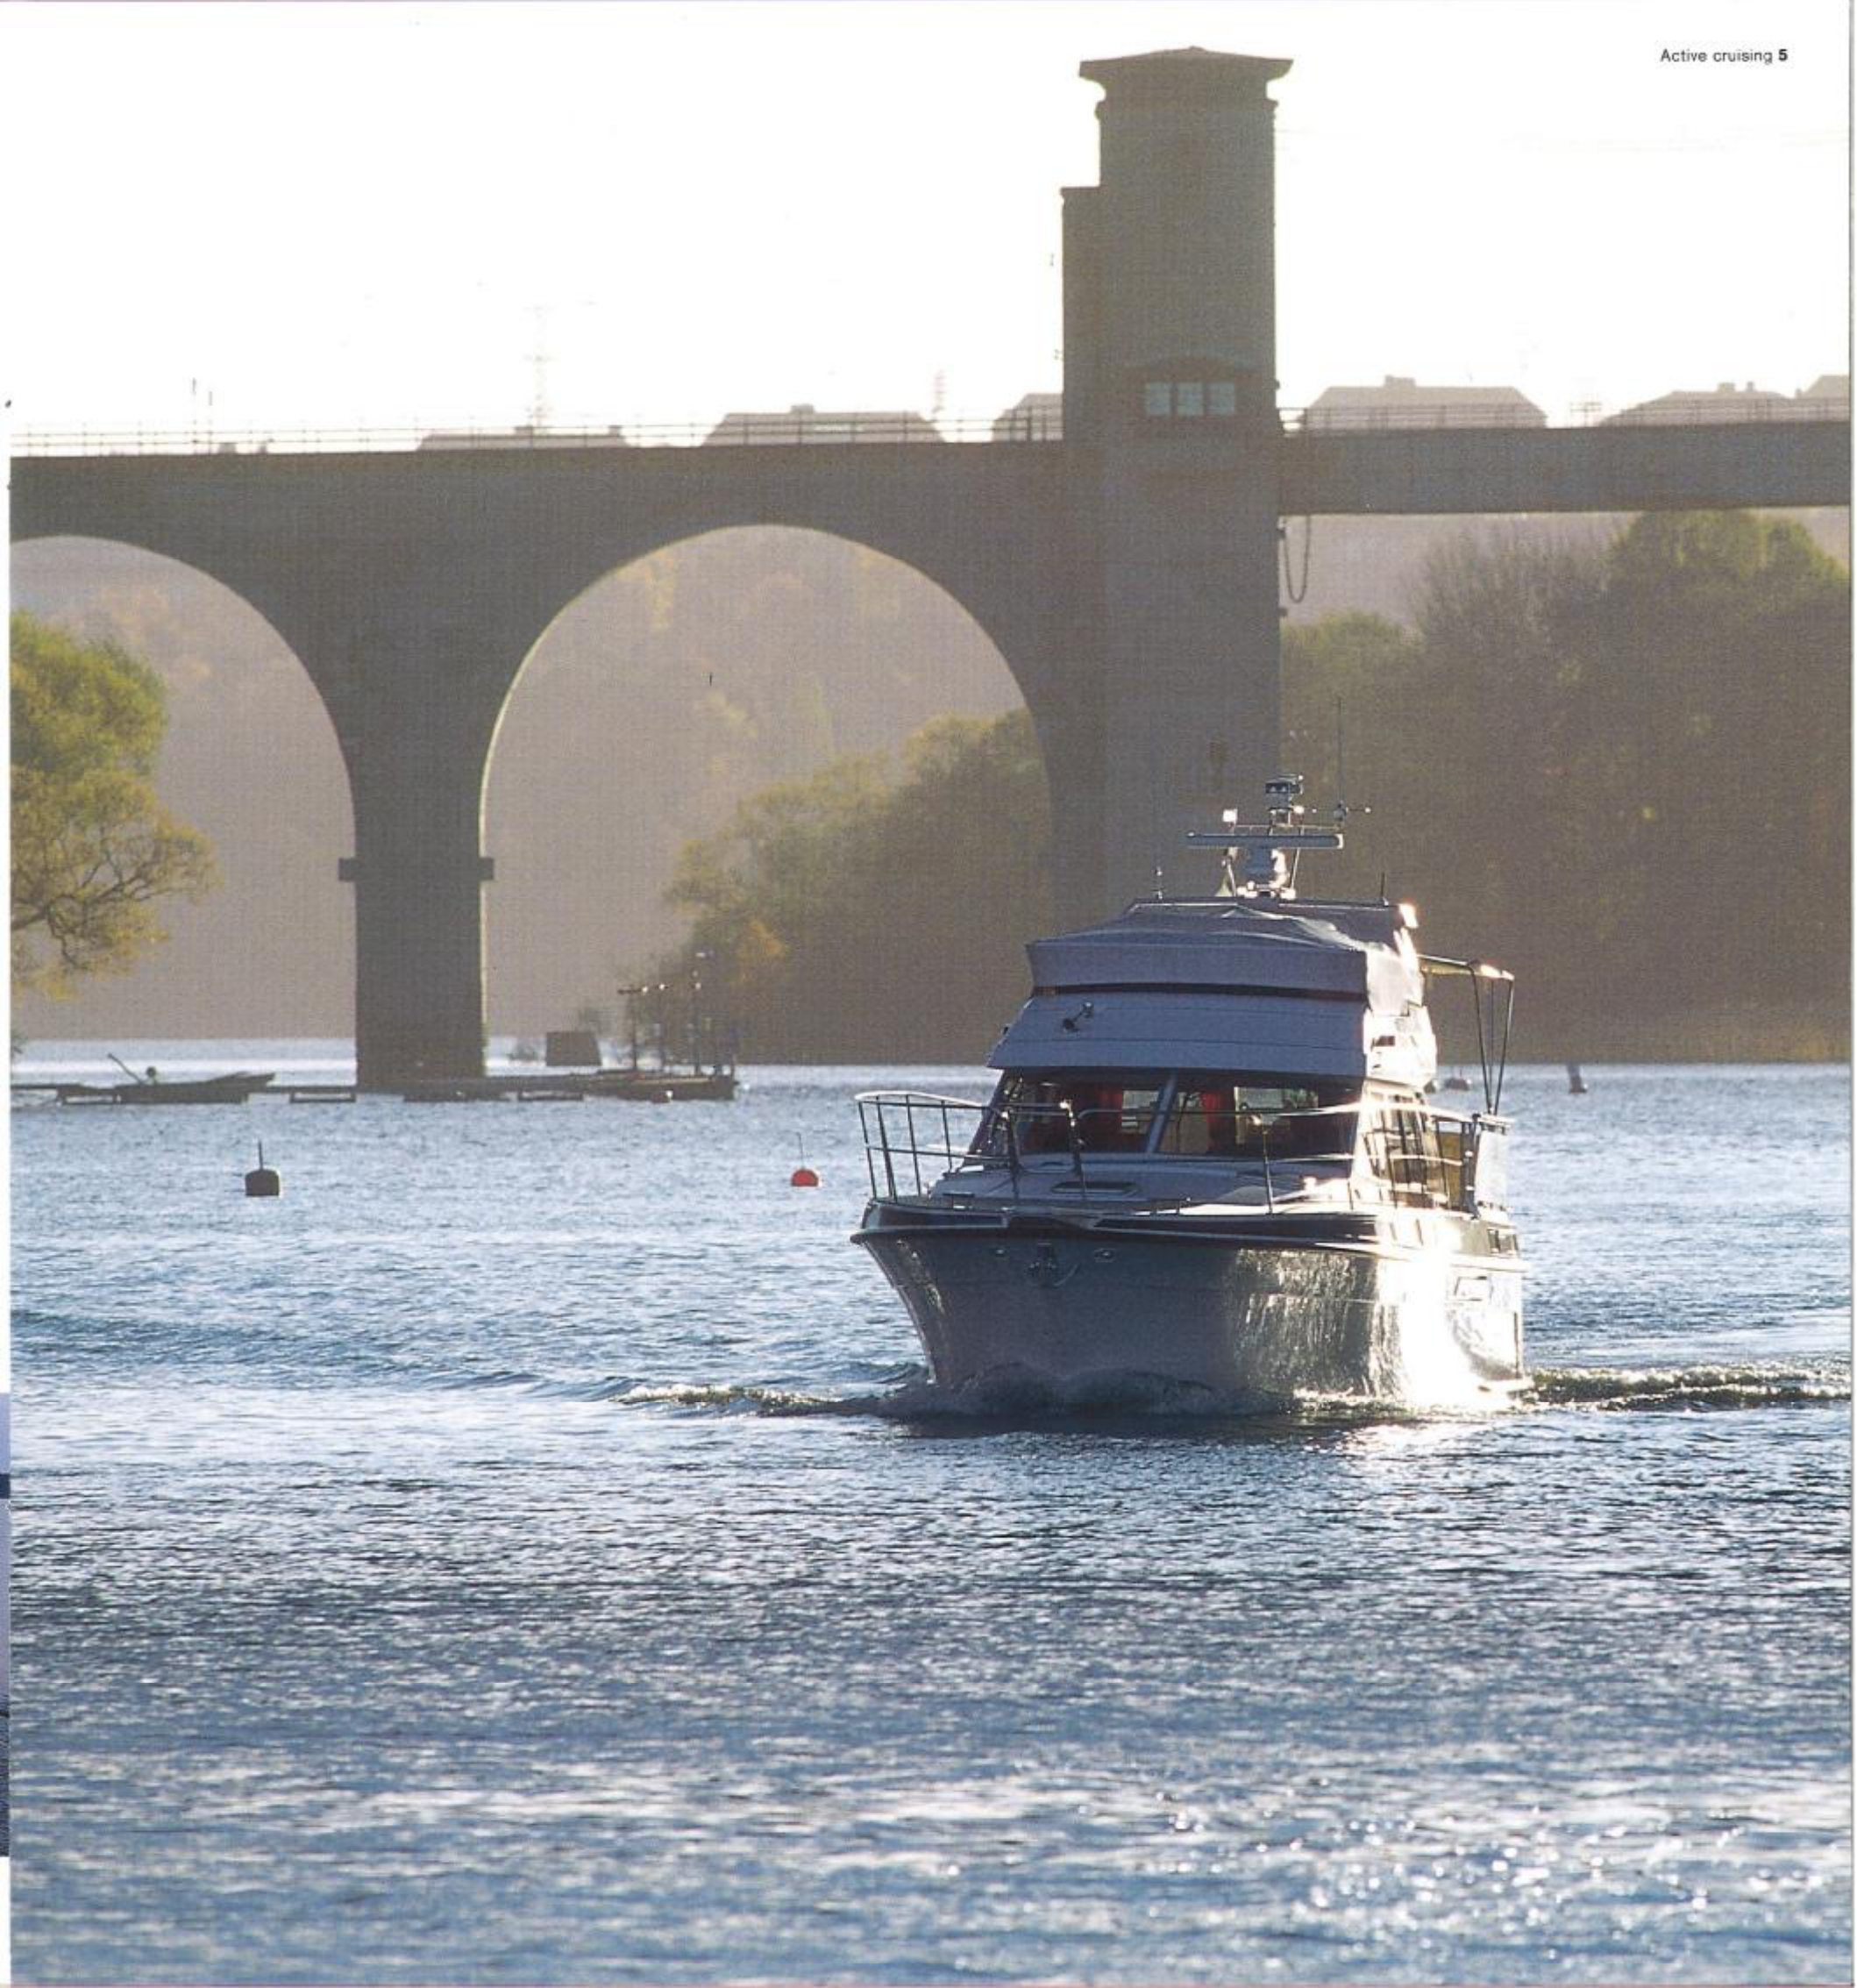

No restrictions

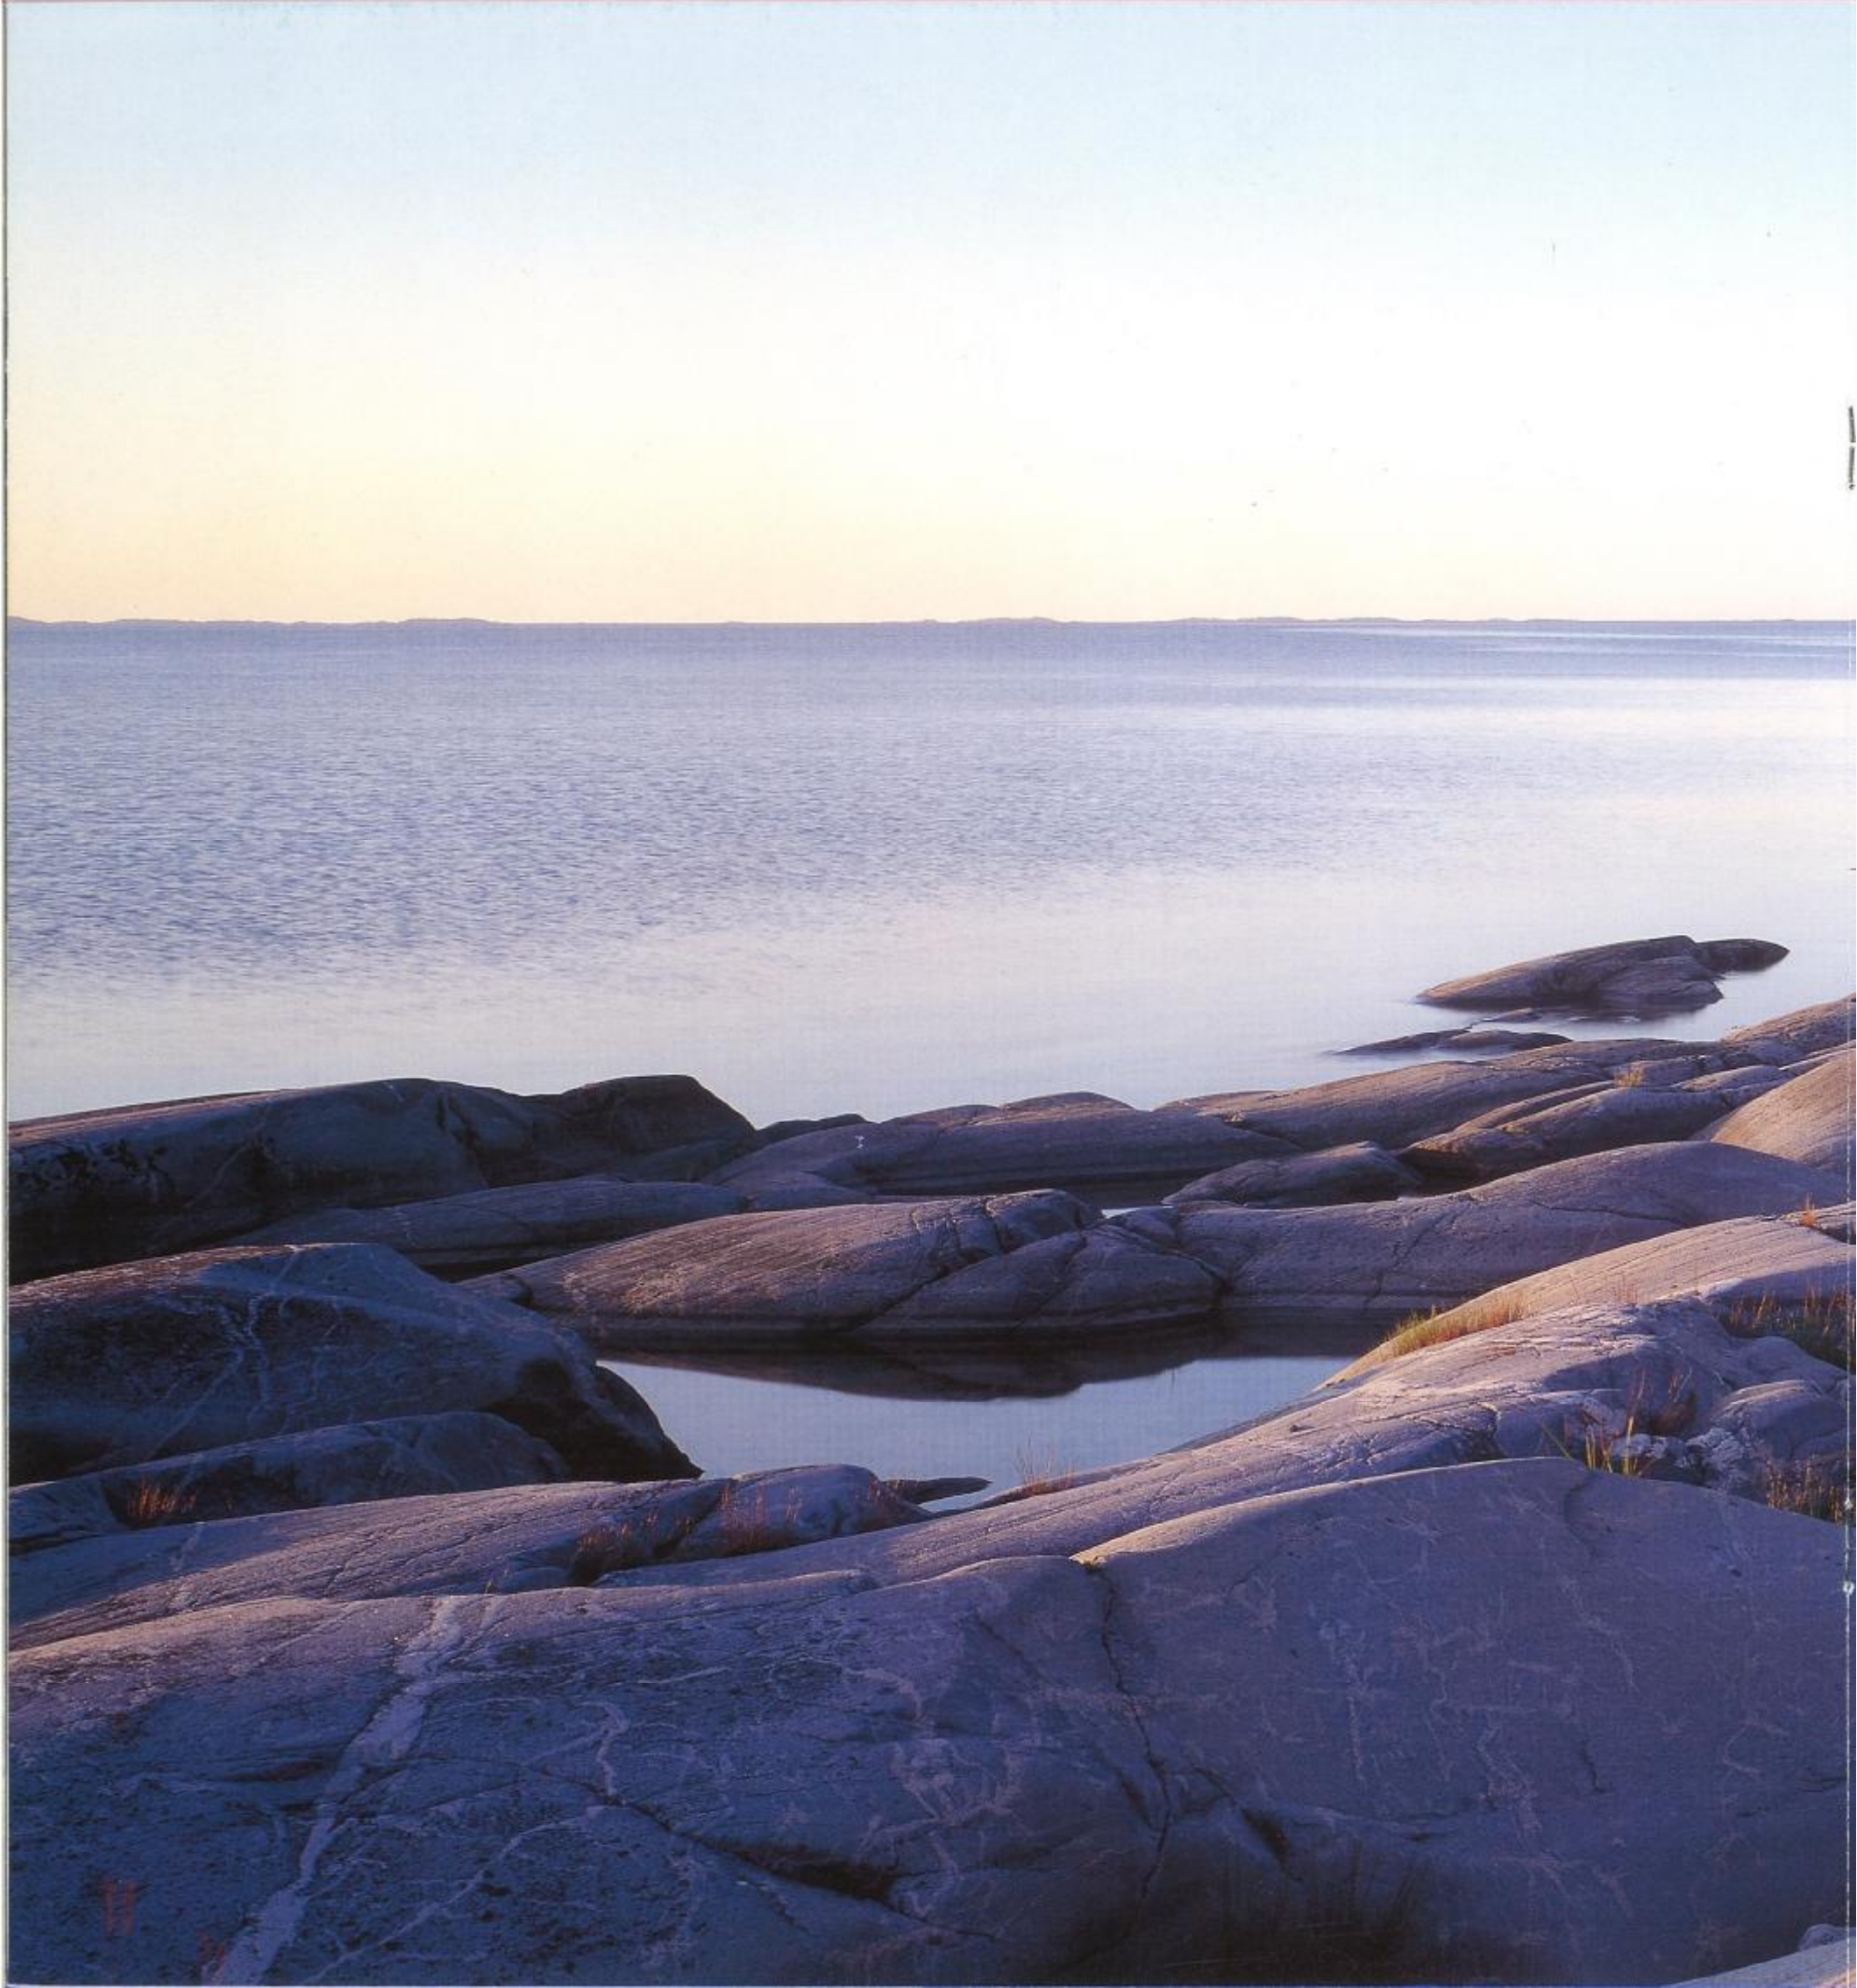

The Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic does not restrict you to short day-cruises, fine weather or protected waters. Quite the reverse. The powerful hull makes the boat safe and stable even in tough and difficult conditions. And the Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic is packed with all the technology and equipment necessary for safe and comfortable cruising.

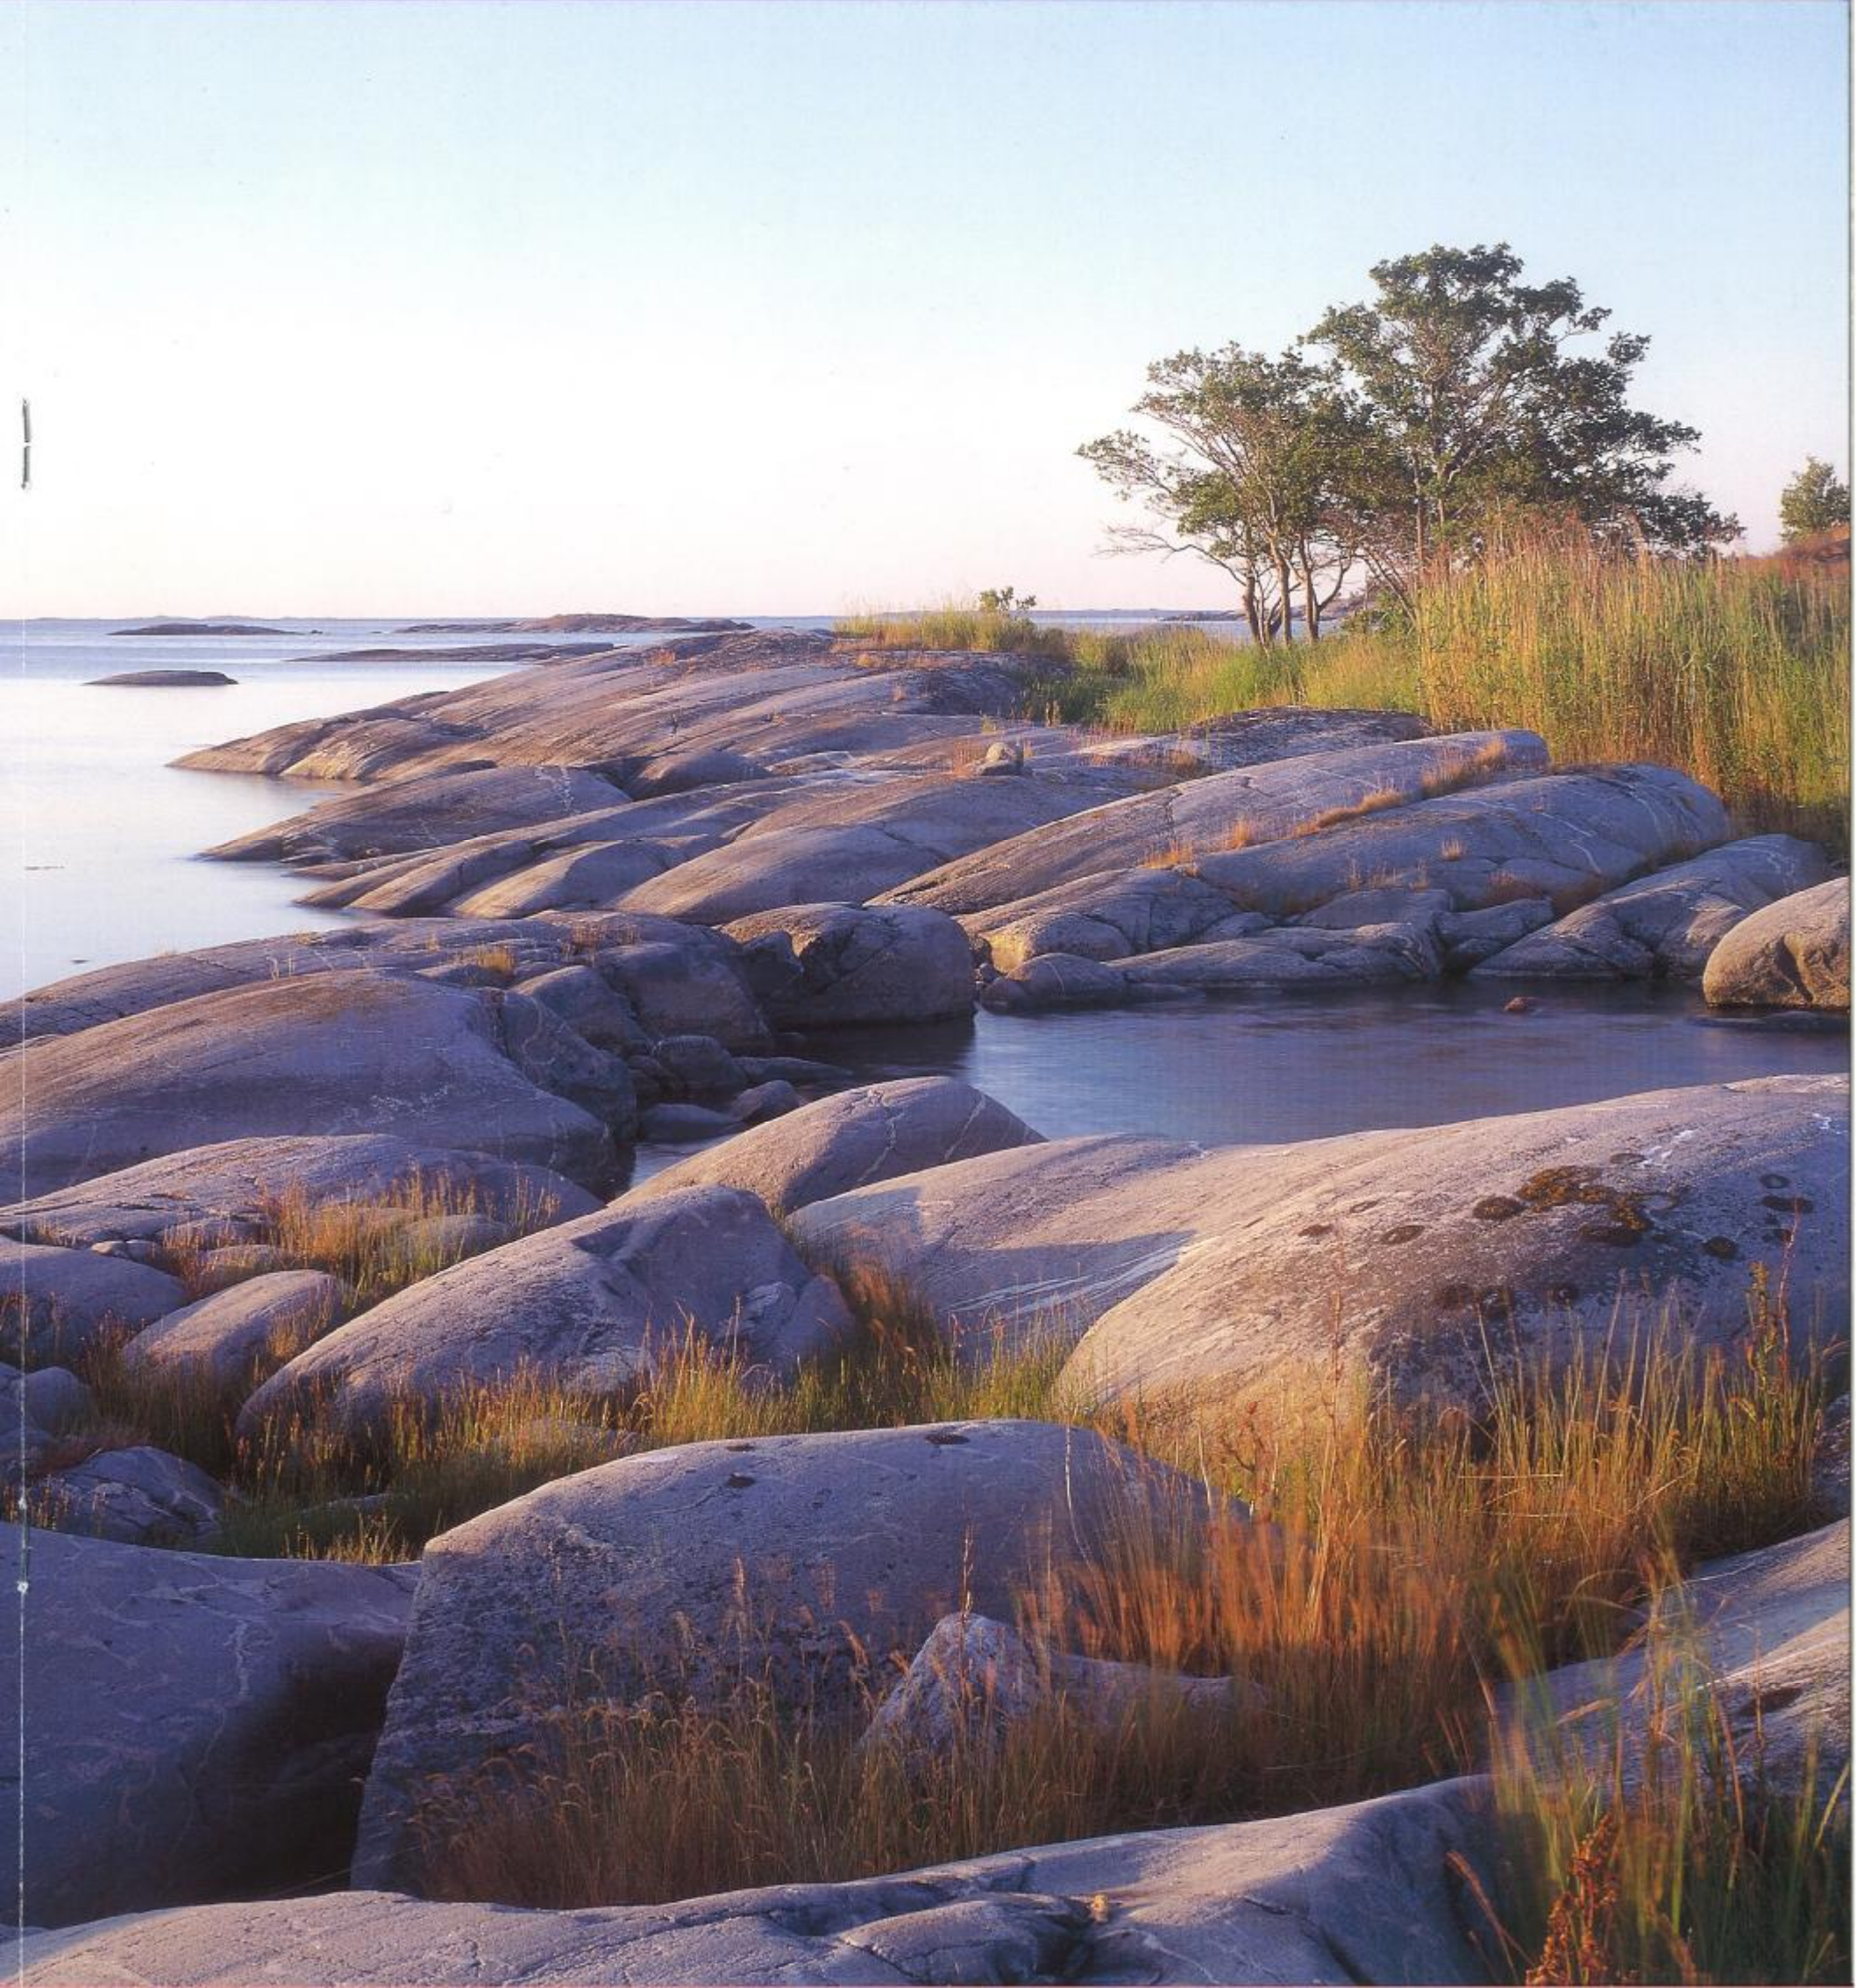

As captain, you have full control from the helmsman's position, while remaining in close contact with the rest of the boat's interior. The flying bridge is also fully equipped and gives you exactly the overview you require.

But the full enjoyment of life afloat is more than the sum of boat-building tradition, comfort, safety and technology. It is also very much a matter of the peace of mind and extra benefits that these features can bring you: the new places, the company of friends, the sharing of wonderful memories. In short, a Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic gives you the scope for adding pleasure to your leisure. The only restrictions are your own experience and seamanship. The rest is sheer enjoyment.

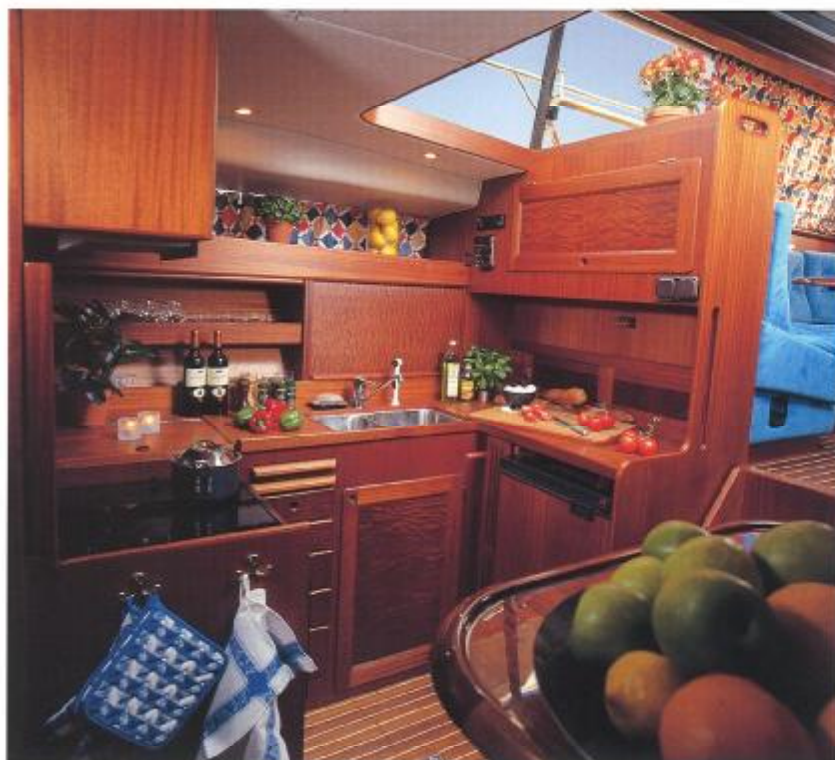

Going places in style and comfort

The Storebro Royal Cruiser 430 Baltic is a safe and seaworthy boat. It is also a beautiful and stylish boat. But its good looks are not just beauty for beauty's sake. The boat is designed to provide maximum pleasure and all the comforts of home to people who spend much of their leisure time at sea. So functionality and practical qualities set the tone, with design solutions rooted in a solid tradition of craftsmanship.

The interior is typical Storebro – perfection down to the minutest detail, velvet-smooth wooden surfaces and matching fabrics of the highest quality. The handmade woodwork is crafted in classic marine grade mahogany.

The well-equipped galley is located amid-ship, in direct contact with the saloon just a few steps up. The worktop is available in a choice of hardwearing Corian (standard) or handsome mahogany. The location of the galley and its open-plan design make it a spacious and easy to work in – ideal for preparing favourite meals and adventurous culinary delights for both family and guests. And if the sea breezes don't sharpen your appetite, the layout and equipment of the galley certainly will.

Freedom of choice

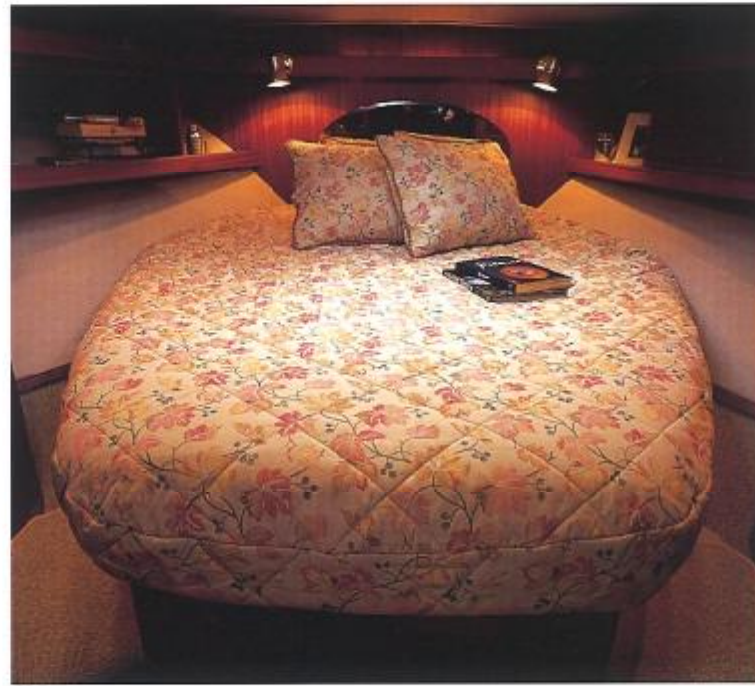

The layout of the boat ensures a comfortable, functional environment, with maximum use made of every inch of space to make life on board as easy as possible.

There is a clear distinction between the sleeping quarters and the areas intended for entertaining and socialising.

The spacious owner's cabin, which is located in the stern, has a double bed with a fully sprung mattress specially made for the marine environment, a separate WC and shower, double cupboards and plenty of storage space.

The large guest cabin, located in the bow, has a double bed with a fully sprung mattress, private shower/WC, cupboard space and excellent storage space. Extra storage space is provided under the easy-lift bed top.

The sleeping quarters have all the comforts and privacy you need to enjoy life on board. If you need more sleeping space for guests, you can opt for a layout with an extra guest cabin (two berths) instead of a dining area. The dining area can, of course, be used as a temporary sleeping space at any time.

Lots of extra stowage space beneath the easy-lift bed top in the roomy guest cabin in the bow. A gas-filled strut makes it easy to lift and lower the "lid". The storage space is lit for extra convenience.

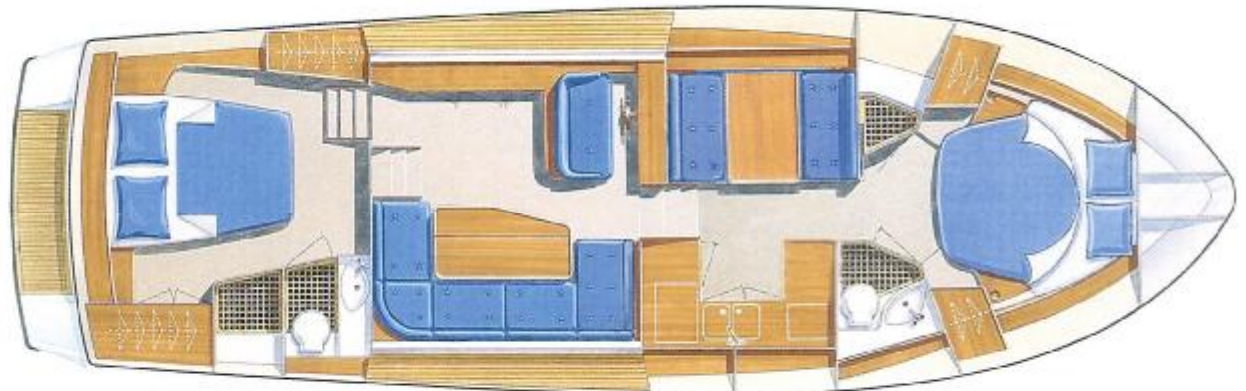

The guest cabin has its own separate WC, wash basin and storage space, as well as a comfortable shower compartment with ample room for standing or sitting.

The elegantly fitted and very spacious owner's cabin, located in the stern, has a wide, comfortable double bed, separate WC and shower and two large cupboards.

The mid-ship dinette can also be replaced by an extra guest cabin for two people.

BUILDERS Storebro Bruks AB, Sweden

The year was 1728. Sixty kilometres from the sea, in the Province of Småland in southern Sweden, a tiny foundry was set up.

The drop hammer forged pig iron smelted from ore dredged from local lakes and mires. Some of the iron was cast into ship's bells, many of which sounded the watches on the great sailing ships. Thus began the story of Storebro Bruk and its long and sometimes adventurous voyage into the present.

Today, it is not iron ingots and ship's bells that carry the Storebro name over the Seven Seas, but motor cruisers with quality, comfort and seaworthiness far beyond the ordinary. And if 270 years of history has taught us anything, it has taught us that only quality can withstand the onslaught of time.
